THE VIRGINIA REGISTER INFORMATION PAGE

THE VIRGINIA REGISTER is an official state publication issued every other week throughout the year. Indexes are published quarterly, and the last index of the year is cumulative. THE VIRGINIA REGISTER has several functions. The new and amended sections of regulations, both as proposed and as finally adopted, are required by law to be published in THE VIRGINIA REGISTER OF REGULATIONS. In addition, THE VIRGINIA REGISTER is a source of other information about state government, including all emergency regulations and executive orders issued by the Governor, the Virginia Tax Bulletin issued periodically by the Department of Taxation, and notices of public hearings and open meetings of state agencies.

ADOPTION, AMENDMENT, AND REPEAL OF REGULATIONS

An agency wishing to adopt, amend, or repeal regulations must first publish in the Virginia Register a notice of intended regulatory action; a basis, purpose, substance and issues statement; an economic impact analysis prepared by the Department of Planning and Budget; the agency's response to the economic impact analysis; a summary; a notice giving the public an opportunity to comment on the proposal; and the text of the proposed regulation.

Following publication of the proposal in the Virginia Register, the promulgating agency receives public comments for a minimum of 60 days. The Governor reviews the proposed regulation to determine if it is necessary to protect the public health, safety and welfare, and if it is clearly written and easily understandable. If the Governor chooses to comment on the proposed regulation, his comments must be transmitted to the agency and the Registrar no later than 15 days following the completion of the 60-day public comment period. The Governor's comments, if any, will be published in the Virginia Register. Not less than 15 days following the completion of the 60-day public comment period, the agency may adopt the proposed regulation.

The appropriate standing committee of each branch of the General Assembly may meet during the promulgation or final adoption process and file an objection with the Registrar and the promulgating agency. The objection will be published in the Virginia Register. Within 21 days after receipt by the agency of a legislative objection, the agency shall file a response with the Registrar, the objecting legislative committee, and the Governor.

When final action is taken, the agency again publishes the text of the regulation as adopted, highlighting all changes made to the proposed regulation and explaining any substantial changes made since publication of the proposal. A 30-day final adoption period begins upon final publication in the Virginia Register.

The Governor may review the final regulation during this time and, if he objects, forward his objection to the Registrar and the agency. In addition to or in lieu of filing a formal objection, the Governor may suspend the effective date of a portion or all of a regulation until the end of the next regular General Assembly session by issuing a directive signed by a majority of the members of the appropriate standing committees and the Governor. The Governor's objection or suspension of the regulation, or both, will be published in the Virginia Register. If the Governor finds that changes made to the proposed regulation have substantial impact, he may require the agency to provide an additional 30-day public comment period on the changes. Notice of the additional public comment period required by the Governor will be published in the Virginia Register.

The agency shall suspend the regulatory process for 30 days when it receives requests from 25 or more individuals to solicit additional public comment, unless the agency determines that the changes have minor or inconsequential impact.

A regulation becomes effective at the conclusion of the 30-day final adoption period, or at any other later date specified by the promulgating agency, unless (i) a legislative objection has been filed, in which event the regulation, unless withdrawn, becomes effective on the date specified, which shall be after the expiration of the 21-day extension period; (ii) the Governor exercises his authority to require the agency to provide for additional public comment, in which event the regulation, unless withdrawn, becomes effective on the date specified, which shall be after the expiration of the period for which the Governor has provided for additional public comment; (iii) the Governor and the General Assembly exercise their authority to suspend the effective date of a regulation until the end of the next regular legislative session; or (iv) the agency suspends the regulatory process, in which event the regulation, unless withdrawn, becomes effective on the date specified, which shall be after the expiration of the 30-day public comment period.

Proposed regulatory action may be withdrawn by the promulgating agency at any time before the regulation becomes final.

EMERGENCY REGULATIONS

If an agency demonstrates that (i) there is an immediate threat to the public's health or safety; or (ii) Virginia statutory law, the appropriation act, federal law, or federal regulation requires a regulation to take effect no later than (a) 280 days from the enactment in the case of Virginia or federal law or the appropriation act, or (b) 280 days from the effective date of a federal regulation, it then requests the Governor's approval to adopt an emergency regulation. The emergency regulation becomes operative upon its adoption and filing with the Registrar of Regulations, unless a later date is specified. Emergency regulations are limited to addressing specifically defined situations and may not exceed 12 months in duration. Emergency regulations are published as soon as possible in the Register.

During the time the emergency status is in effect, the agency may proceed with the adoption of permanent regulations through the usual procedures. To begin promulgating the replacement regulation, the agency must (i) file the Notice of Intended Regulatory Action with the Registrar within 60 days of the effective date of the emergency regulation; and (ii) file the proposed regulation with the Registrar within 180 days of the effective date of the emergency regulation. If the agency chooses not to adopt the regulations, the emergency status ends when the prescribed time limit expires.

STATEMENT

The foregoing constitutes a generalized statement of the procedures to be followed. For specific statutory language, it is suggested that Article 2 (§ 9-6.14:7.1 et seq.) of Chapter 1.1:1 of the Code of Virginia be examined carefully.

Emergency regulations, if any, are listed, followed by the designation "emer," and errata pertaining to final regulations are listed. Proposed regulations are not listed here. The table lists the sections in numerical order and shows action taken, the volume, issue and page number where the section appeared, and the effective date of the section.

TITLE 22. SOCIAL SERVICES

STATE BOARD OF SOCIAL SERVICES

Title of Regulation: 22 VAC 40-35-5 et seq. Virginia Independence Program (amending 22 VAC 40-35-10, adding 22 VAC 40-35-125).

Statutory Authority: §§ 63.1-25 and 63.1-25.3 of the Code of Virginia.

Public Hearing Date: N/A - Public comments may be submitted until August 7, 1998.

(See Calendar of Events section for additional information)

Basis: Section 63.1-25.3 of the Code of Virginia requires the board to implement the Virginia Targeted Jobs Grant Program.

Purpose: The purpose of this regulation is to ensure the safety and welfare of individuals who are dependent on the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) Program by targeting individuals who have a longer history of receiving public assistance that will be targeted for job placements which will result in gainful employment and self-sufficiency by the conclusion of their 24-month eligibility period.

Substance: The proposed Virginia Targeted Jobs Grant Program offers to pay a $1,000 grant to employers who hire and retain for at least 1,000 hours individuals who have been receiving cash assistance benefits for nine consecutive months.

Issues: The agency and public will benefit from this program as individuals who would otherwise be dependent on taxpayer-funded public assistance will become self-sufficient, thereby reducing welfare caseloads and the cost of public assistance programs. By promoting the hiring of individuals who have been recipients of TANF for at least nine months into the workforce, the Virginia Targeted Jobs Grant Program will focus on providing individuals who may be deficient in employment experience and/or job skills with employment opportunities, ensuring that they will be gainfully employed and self-sufficient by the end of their 24-month eligibility period. There have been no identified disadvantages to the program.

Department of Planning and Budget's Economic Impact Analysis: The Department of Planning and Budget (DPB) has analyzed the economic impact of this proposed regulation in accordance with § 9-6.14:7.1 G of the Administrative Process Act and Executive Order Number 13 (94). Section 9-6.14:7.1 G requires that such economic impact analyses include, but need not be limited to, the projected number of businesses or other entities to whom the regulation would apply, the identity of any localities and types of businesses or other entities particularly affected, the projected number of persons and employment positions to be affected, the projected costs to affected businesses or entities to implement or comply with the regulation, and the impact on the use and value of private property. The analysis presented below represents DPB's best estimate of these economic impacts.

Executive summary. The proposed Virginia Targeted Jobs Grant Program offers to pay a $1,000 grant to employers who hire and retain for at least 1,000 hours individuals who have been receiving cash assistance benefits for nine consecutive months. This program was implemented on October 1, 1997, as an emergency regulation, although no individuals have been placed to date. Although the TAG program is not being utilized, there has been movement of long-term welfare recipients to the workplace. According to the Department of Social Services (DSS), several individuals who qualify for the TAG program have been placed in private sector employment without utilizing this grant program, although DSS was not able to provide exact figures at the time of this analysis.

The design of the TAG program is consistent with successful welfare-to-work strategies evaluated in current literature. DPB spoke with several Virginia employers who indicated that they would be interested in the TAG program, that the grant amount was a sufficient incentive, and that the additional paperwork was not a deterrent. This suggests that a lack of awareness about the program may be the chief factor responsible for the TAG program's under-use, as opposed to flaws in the program's design. Based on the information available, DPB would recommend that DSS consider investigating the reasons for the lack of use of the current TAG program to determine if any additional action could be taken to increase the effectiveness of this program in placing long-term welfare recipients in private sector jobs.

Summary of the proposed regulation. This amendment to the Virginia Independence Program (VIP) permanently implements the Virginia Targeted Jobs Grant Program, which was originally implemented through an emergency regulation on October 1, 1997. The Targeted Jobs Grant (TAG) program offers to pay a $1,000 grant to employers who hire and retain for at least 1,000 hours individuals who have been receiving cash assistance benefits for at least nine consecutive months. The TAG program has been budgeted $375,000 each year through fiscal year 2000, for its implementation and will be administered by the existing

Estimated economic impact.

Current Literature. The majority of recent literature on welfare-to-work strategies concentrates on overall initiatives rather than specific components, such as job grant programs. One recent study of four state welfare-to-work strategies showed clear positive results in terms of employment and earnings gains for program participants.<sup>2</sup> In addition, the resulting reductions in public assistance payments were large enough to offset program costs in two of the four programs, and in a third when impacts on other transfer payments (i.e., Medicaid payments, food stamps) were factored in. The programs that included more generous education and training components were more likely to have longer lasting impacts on recipient's self-sufficiency and income, although these programs generally cost more and therefore do not provide the same amount of short-run savings to government.

The proposed Virginia TAG program would be a component of the existing Virginia Initiative for Employment not Welfare (VIEW) program, which has a similar design to the welfare-to-work programs evaluated above. TAG participants would be eligible for related VIP/VIEW services (i.e., job training, transportation and childcare subsidies) as needed.

The recent literature on wage subsidies presents evidence that such policies have low utilization rates.<sup>3</sup> During the Job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS) program in the late 1960s-early 1970s, the federal government offered contracts that would reimburse businesses an average of $3,200 per placement. Despite this relatively large hiring subsidy and much publicity, only one third of all businesses hiring JOBS eligible employees took advantage of the grant. In addition, data from the 1970s Work Incentive Tax Credit (WINTC) program indicates that no more than 20% of the work-incentive program enrollees who were known to have entered employment during the year were claimed by firms as a tax credit.<sup>4</sup>

The TAG program requires individuals to have received welfare benefits for nine consecutive months in order for an employer to be eligible for the grant. This targets the hardest-to-employ welfare recipients. Some studies have shown that such a specific target may have adverse effects if eligibility represents a stigma to potential employers.<sup>5</sup> Given that this program is targeted at the hardest-to-employ segment of the welfare roles raises the question of whether a $1 per hour subsidy is sufficient to generate employer interest.

Review of TAG Program to Date. Implemented on October 1, 1997, as an emergency regulation, the TAG program has been in place for 7 months. Although some businesses have expressed interest in general tax credits and grants available, no one has been placed through the TAG program to date.<sup>6</sup> There are several possible reasons why the TAG program is not currently being utilized. Employers may not be aware of the grant or the grant may not be enough of an incentive to hire eligible workers.

DPB contacted businesses with which Virginia has state partnerships to get their general feedback on the concept of the TAG program.<sup>7</sup> Of the two employers contacted, one had just requested information on the TAG program the previous week. Once explained, both indicated that the grant amount was a sufficient incentive and that the additional paperwork required was not a deterrent, even given the strength of the current economy. Both employers did indicate that tax credit programs were preferable to cash grants.

According to DSS, several individuals who qualify for the TAG program have been placed into private sector employment without utilizing this grant program, although DSS was not able to provide exact figures at the time of this analysis. This, along with the information from employers, suggests that a lack of awareness about the program may be responsible for the TAG program's under-use, as opposed to flaws in the program's design. Based on the information available, DPB would recommend that DSS consider investigating the reasons for the lack of use of the current TAG program to determine if any additional action could be taken to increase the effectiveness of this program in placing long-term welfare recipients in private sector jobs.

Theoretical Review of Proposal. Although the TAG program is not currently being used, it is still possible to evaluate its potential cost effectiveness. Administrative costs are expected to be minimal since the TAG program will be administered by the existing VIEW program. In spite of this, the cost per new job created will probably be greater than the grant amount of $1,000. There are two reasons for this. First, certain participants hired might have found jobs without the grant program and therefore do not represent a net increase in employment. Secondly, the program provides a $1 per hour wage subsidy for qualifying welfare recipients. The effect of such a subsidy will be to increase the demand for grant-eligible workers relative to other comparably skilled workers since the cost of hiring them is lower. If a grant-eligible individual is hired in place of a noneligible worker then there is (again) no net gain in employment.

The extent of such job displacement among non-qualifying workers will depend on the state of the labor market. In a tight labor market where jobs are plentiful and workers are scarce, a wage subsidy is more likely to create new jobs, although the possibility that the participants hired would have found work without the grant is higher. In a slack labor market where jobs are few and workers are plentiful, a wage subsidy will most likely result in substantial job displacement for nonqualifying workers as firms turn to "cheaper" labor. While the cost per new job created is likely to be greater than $1000, there is reason to believe that the benefits received will outweigh the costs of this program.

The most obvious benefits will be the savings in Temporary Aid for Needy Families (TANF) assistance and other related transfer payments. These savings will result from the increased incomes of participants and their departure from the welfare rolls. Some individuals may also gain employment that provides health insurance benefits, decreasing state Medicaid expenditures. The community will benefit from the increase in productivity that results from the movement of individuals from the welfare rolls to the workforce.

On the other hand, there are some potential costs associated with an individual's transition to the workforce. While the belief that most people prefer to be productive members of society is probably well-grounded, a single mother that must work long hours at a low-paying job while having to put her children in day-care may believe that she was better off on welfare, especially if the available day care is perceived to be of a lower quality.

A complete estimate of the cost effectiveness of this program cannot be made without knowing the following:

1. How many individuals hired with the grant would have found employment otherwise?
2. How many individuals hired with the grant displaced other noneligible workers?
3. How many individuals hired with the grant subsequently returned to the welfare system?
4. What is the increased productivity to society of the employed worker, (i.e. the value gained by society)?

While these cannot be quantified at this time, there is a reasonable expectation to believe that the potential benefits will outweigh the costs of the TAG program.

Businesses and entities affected. There are approximately 500 individuals currently eligible to be placed under the TAG program, but this number is expected to rise as the conversion to VIEW is completed throughout the Commonwealth.<sup>8</sup>

This regulation will positively affect businesses who take advantage of the wage subsidy. A firm will not hire additional workers unless there is some marginal benefit, however small it may be. This benefit to the firm may come in the form of higher profits or it may be derived from the contribution to the community or an enhanced reputation, but, in any case, the firm will expect to be better off.

Localities particularly affected. This regulation is not expected to disproportionately affect any particular localities.

Projected impact on employment. This program could potentially result in a net increase in employment for Virginia. As discussed previously, the extent of the increase would depend on the state of the labor market and whether the placements would have found jobs otherwise. In a slack labor market the potential for job displacements of noneligible workers is strong. Given the size of the eligible pool of program participants, any impact on employment would probably be relatively small.

Effects on the use and value of private property. This regulation is not expected to have any effect on the use and value of private property.

Agency's Response to the Department of Planning and Budget's Economic Impact Analysis: The Department of Social Services concurs with the findings and conclusions of the economic impact analysis prepared by the Department of Planning and Budget.

1. Such delegation is subject always to my continuing, ultimate authority and responsibility to act in such matters.
2. Use of this delegation is contingent upon my being outside the borders of the Commonwealth of Virginia and unable to be reached so as to give my approval for the declaration of a State of Emergency and/or use of the Virginia National Guard.
3. This delegation is strictly standby in nature, to be held in abeyance until such time as there may be explicit circumstances involving an emergency whereby human lives and public and private property are threatened in event of natural or man-made emergencies or disasters.
4. If the authority granted under this order is used, I am to be informed of such use as soon as practicable.

The following conditions apply to the employment of the Virginia National Guard:

1. In all instances, members of the Virginia National Guard shall remain subject to military command as prescribed by Section 44-78.1 of the Code of Virginia and not subject to the civilian authorities of the state or local governments.
2. Should service under this Executive Order result in the injury or death of any member of the Virginia National Guard, the following will be provided to the member and the member's dependents or survivors:
  - a. Workers' Compensation benefits provided to members of the Virginia National Guard by the Virginia Workers' Compensation Act, subject to the requirements and limitations thereof; and, in addition, month shall be reduced by any payments due under the Virginia Workers' Compensation Act during the same month. If and when the time period for payment of Workers' Compensation benefits has elapsed, the member and his or her dependents or survivors shall thereafter receive full federal-type benefits for as long as they would have received such benefits if the member had been serving on federal active duty at the time of injury or death. Any federal-type benefits due shall be computed on the basis of military pay grade E-5 or the member's military grade at the time of injury or death, whichever produces the greater benefit amount. Pursuant to Section 44-14 of the Code of Virginia, and subject to the concurrence of the Board of Military Affairs, and subject to the availability of future appropriations which may be lawfully applied to this purpose, I now approve of future expenditures out of appropriations to the Department of Military Affairs for such federal-type benefits as being manifestly for the benefit of the military service.
