Learning to navigate the new world economic order

In the face of a rapidly-changing global landscape with increased emphases on innovation and technology, we must ensure that our children are well-equipped with the requisite knowledge and skills to enter this new world economic order.

With big data and artificial intelligence coming to the fore in almost every aspect of our life, a holistic education delivered in a liberal and inquisitive mode is definitely more effective in nurturing children to become intelligent, adaptable whole persons who possess the drive and flexibility to realize their full potentials and tackle challenges unfazed.

A school is a community of learners who can learn with and from one another, so the caliber of the teaching staff as well as the quality of the cohorts are important considerations in molding students' personality and capabilities. There is the added dimension of interdisciplinary learning which calls for a holistic approach that mirrors real life where activities are not segregated into separate subjects.

Schools should also enable students to understand their own cultures and to respect the diversity of others in such areas as values, tradition, behavior and practices. The ultimate goal is develop them to become active and compassionate citizens.

We hope this Guide will provide you with useful reference in choosing the best-fit school for your child.

Striving to provide a balanced education

Christian Alliance International School (CAIS) is dedicated to cultivating young minds into holistic future leaders of tomorrow through its diverse curriculum combined with a nurturing environment.

Valuing holistic education

In the present era, education extends beyond traditional academics. There is a growing acknowledgment of the importance of holistic education, which prioritizes not only students' intellectual progress but also their overall development in areas such as physical, social, and spiritual.

CAIS is a Christian through-train school that values both the personal and academic development of students. It not only emphasizes the significance of a robust curriculum and adequate facilities but above all, it focuses on the core motivations that drive a school's dedication to educating students.

Mr Daniel Schick, High School Principal of CAIS, believes that while having a strong curriculum is crucial, creating a nurturing environment for students to thrive and flourish holds even greater significance. He views the curriculum as a powerful tool, but acknowledges that its effectiveness depends on how it is wielded and embraced. This includes considering the nature of learning within the institution and whether it fosters a harmonious blend of academic excellence and additional opportunities that cultivate students' sense of belonging and a genuine joy for learning.

Igniting a love for knowledge

Recognizing the importance of encouraging students to explore and learn outside the traditional classroom setting, CAIS offers over 40 student clubs and more than 40 sports teams tailored to students' innate and nurtured interests. "Curiosity, at CAIS, looks like the yearn for knowledge, wanting to be inquisitive, and having ceaseless questions about anything," says Ms Ana Han, High School Assistant Principal of CAIS.

At CAIS, the school realizes the importance of igniting students' curiosity and nurturing a passion for knowledge. This is crucial because it creates and induces stamina in learning. To stimulate students' continuous interest in their surroundings, one way is through enrichment learning and student-centered learning. Speaking of student clubs, Ms Han adds, "Students and teachers come together to contemplate thought-provoking questions, such as how to establish a club, how the club can promote community service, and how we can serve our community."

A healthy balance between academics and growth

Academically at the school, one of the things that CAIS takes pride in is the diverse curriculum it offers and its flexible educational approach. As students are not all the same and school curriculum is not one-size-fits-all, there are various options for students to select what suits them best. CAIS is the only international school in Hong Kong that offers three education pathways for its students, including the Alberta (Canada) curriculum, International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme (IBDP), and Advanced Placement courses.

Ultimately, success stems from striking a healthy balance between academic development and character education. While strong academic intelligence and intellect are important for a successful profession, what truly goes above and beyond is an individual's integrity, moral character, effective communication skills, and a generous spirit in serving others.

Box Hill nurtures confident and respectful children

Box Hill (HK) International Kindergarten and Pre-school cultivates children's character development to nurture them into confident and respectful individuals through a diverse array of hands-on activities, with the goal of providing quality education to children.

Raising respectful children

At Box Hill, the cultivation of respect is a fundamental aspect of the educational journey. Their dedicated educators employ a variety of research-based strategies to help children understand the importance of mutual respect. For example, they teach by role play; children are encouraged to take on different roles and engage in scenarios that promote respect, such as showing kindness to others, listening attentively, and valuing different perspectives. This hands-on approach enables children to effectively develop empathy and perspective-taking skills.

Furthermore, various activities such as workshops as well as parenting seminars are regularly conducted at the Ma On Shan campus. "Our goal is to encourage the respectful qualities instilled in students at school to extend into their homes and also all aspects of their lives," says Ms Luby Ng, School Principal of the Ma On Shan Campus.

A child-centered curriculum

Box Hill believes in the power of a child-centered curriculum that recognizes the unique qualities and learning styles of each child. The curriculum is designed to foster a love for learning and exploration by incorporating hands-on activities, play-based learning, and interactive lessons. Children are encouraged to ask questions, make discoveries, and express their ideas while teachers encourage them through positive reinforcement. Mrs Holly Gonzales, School Development Specialist, further explains, "This approach not only enhances their cognitive development but also nurtures their creativity, critical thinking, problem-solving skills, and self-expression, setting them up for being confident leaders in the future."

Box Hill's UK Early Years Foundation Stage (EYFS) based curriculum also emphasizes on cultivating children's language skills from an early age. At the school, English is the primary language of instruction, but children will also be given plenty of opportunities to develop equal language proficiency in Cantonese and Mandarin. Teachers utilize a multitude of strategies that include interesting activities, modeling conversations and various props to engage students and encourage them to express themselves orally. Show-and-tell activities play a crucial role in providing ample opportunities for self-expression and language building. Instead of relying solely on paper-based reading or flashcards, real life objects are utilized to foster greater engagement and enhance language absorption. By fostering an interactive and stimulating learning environment, children can establish a strong connection between the languages they are acquiring.

Home-school collaboration

Box Hill acknowledges the crucial role parents play in their child's education and actively promotes a strong partnership between the home and the school. Open lines of communication give parents a glimpse into their child's behavior at school so that they can gain a better understanding of their child's abilities.

Luby elucidates on how the school actively encourages parents to participate in school activities, workshops, and events, fostering a sense of community and shared responsibility. "For instance, parents can volunteer to teach students their know-how, such as instruments, dancing, and even sign up as mystery storybook readers. We also have home activities for parents to collaborate with their child and learn in a fun and interactive way at home," she adds. "This collaborative approach ensures a holistic learning experience for the child, with consistent support from both home and school," she explains.

Finding little joys in life

A survey released near the end of last year by The Chinese University of Hong Kong's Faculty of Medicine showed that 24.4 percent of the 6,082 children and teenagers surveyed from 2019 and 2023 experienced at least one mental health issue over the past year when they were interviewed.

To raise awareness about the importance of children's mental wellbeing, HSBC Life has partnered with local illustrator Dustykid to organize a creative competition, Sketch Your Promises, Stack Your Happiness.

The popular illustrator, who has over 250,000 followers on Facebook alone, is famous for his heartwarming artwork and content.

Through the collaboration, HSBC Life hopes to encourage children and teenagers to unleash their imagination and share the little joys in their lives.

"At HSBC Life, our commitment extends beyond health and wealth protection to embrace the mental well-being of our customers and their next generation. With that in mind, we are delighted to partner with local illustrator Dustykid in organising the competition," said Daisy Tsang, interim CEO of HSBC Life Hong Kong and Macau. "Through the power of artistic expression, we aim to help children and teenagers in Hong Kong engage with the beauty of life, and invite everyone to join us in caring for the emotional wellbeing of those around us."

Dustykid and Cantopop star Kay Tse will select a total of 100 winners.

The winning entries will be displayed at the plaza lobby of the HSBC Main Building. Additionally, the top 10 winners from each age group will receive a HK$2,000 book voucher prize.

Their entries will also be recorded in the Sketch Your Promises, Stack Your Happiness story book.

Supporting organization The Boys' & Girls' Clubs Association of Hong Kong will help disseminate the applications and collect the entries.

The association has the largest footprint of children and youth centres in Hong Kong - serving around 51,000 children and teenagers aged six to 14, with services reaching 15 primary schools and 38 secondary schools.

Participants will be divided into two age groups: Junior for those aged six to 10 and Youth for those aged 11 to 14.

Registration forms can be collected at designated HSBC branches or downloaded from the competition website. Only one entry is allowed per person.

The deadline for submission is noon on May 31.

The art of giving constructive feedback: the sandwich method

■ Idea of the content was created by Ms Irene Tsang (professional counsellor). Ms Tsang is a graduate of Master of Counselling in the University of South Australia. She has over 20 years of experience in Counselling.

■ English Editor: Ms Wong Wai Ting Joyce, Joyce is a Psychology student of HKU SPACE Po Leung Kuk Stanley Ho Community College.

When it comes to personal interactions, do you find yourself more at ease engaging in face-to-face conversations or using digital communication software? The choice varies among individuals. Some prefer messaging platforms because they offer more time to carefully ponder their responses, utilizing texts and emojis to craft their messages. On the other hand, communicating in person can be more challenging due to the inherent pressure of anticipating how the recipient will react to the message. While positive messages generally pose no significant hurdle, the question arises: Is there a better way to convey constructive feedback?

To make constructive feedback more palatable, many people employ the "sandwich approach." This method involves sandwiching the bad news between two pieces of good news. By doing so, the overall message becomes more acceptable to the listener. Imagine a scenario where you need to counsel a child who struggles to understand others and often ends up uttering hurtful remarks. Instead of diving straight into the problem, begin with words of appreciation, such as acknowledging the child's hard work. This acts as the first layer of bread. Then, deliver the key information as the filling. Finally, wrap it up with recommendations and words of encouragement, forming the top layer of bread. For instance, you could suggest, "Sometimes, speaking slowly and allowing others to witness your effort can effectively convey your message." This approach provides the child with ample time to process the message and receive guidance through your advice.

One might argue that the sandwich approach is hypocritical, as it presents bad news in a more acceptable manner. However, let's reflect on this: Are individuals truly one-dimensional? The answer is a resounding "no." This method serves as a reminder not only to focus on others' negatives but also to appreciate the good within them. It is crucial for young individuals to grasp this concept early on, enabling them to maintain a healthy mindset when communicating and forming bonds with others.

As we acknowledge the numerous challenges children face as they grow up, it becomes essential for us, as adults around our students/children, to create a positive learning environment for them. The Advanced Certificate in Life Coaching course equips you with the knowledge to apply life coaching skills in a variety of roles so that you can support the people around you to achieve their life goals. # Master of the universe

With the opening of CTF Education Group's The Education Hubin Panyu, Guangzhou, last month, children from kindergarten to 12th grade in the Greater Bay Area had more resources to prepare them to thrive in a fast-evolving, dynamic world.

This summer, the hub will welcome expert educators and industry professionals to lead its first Master Series summer camp, providing unusual experiences for kids and teens aged five to 14.

Through its Kinderversity model, which brings together a community of learners, educators, researchers and industry professionals, the hub is creating a new learning experience based on collaboration and community. The new summer camp offers drama, musical theatre, creative dramatics, design, innovation and technology, bioengineering, Chinese culture and literature, and sports.

It will be held in Mandarin and English.

Camp participants of the Innovation Series will enjoy hands-on experience in the real world of information and technology under the guidance of Tony Chen, an expert in the field of STEAM education and winner of the Japan MEXT Global COE Outstanding Scientific Research Achievement Award.

They will visit automotive factories to understand how vehicles are assembled; conduct experiments on DNA recombination technology; explore graphical and Python/C++ programming using drones, Vex and Matrix robots; and gain practical experience with engineering design, 3D printing, and robotics.

Campers will also explore how Sun Tzu applies to modern day commerce tactics in business at the Chinese Culture in Business Series led by Alex Gui, a television producer and host of Guangdong

Radio and Television's Kids Channel, and enjoy a behind-the-scenes look at the Guangzhou TV station. They will be assigned tasks and may even record, produce and air their results.

Chinese immersion through exposure to Lingnan culture is one of the highlights of the inaugural Summer Master Series, led by Xu Junru, a city-level inheritor of Intangible Cultural Heritage's National Representative Project of Guangcai.

Participants will have the opportunity to experience the art of pressed flowers and guangcai, or traditional hand-painted porcelain, to cultivate their aesthetic sense, imagination, and creativity.

In the Performing Arts Series, kids and teens will take to the stage to explore themselves and their relationships through the world of theater. They will be taught by Paul Tines, the former executive director of the Paul Mellon Arts Center and head of the Choate Rosemary Hall Arts Department.

Under the theme of "Family, Friendship and Resilience," campers will create interactive performances about friendships and family members using different musicals and characters.

Each performance, before a live audience, will be a window into their personal growth and transformation through the performing arts.

At the camp, participants will enjoy access to state-of-the-art performing arts, sports and innovation center facilities to enrich their experiences and expand their horizons. They will also enjoy boarding life experiences, which are a great opportunity for older campers to develop new friendships with peers from across the Greater Bay Area while building communication and social skills.

Empowering Future Leaders: Hong Kong Academy's Sustainable Journey Unveiled

As a globally-minded international school, Hong Kong Academy places sustainability at the core of who they are and how they operate. Inspired by the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals and the Hong Kong 2050 Climate Action Plan, they continuously look for practical solutions and partnerships which engage students as agents of change. Students are challenged to identify real-world problems, consider a range of perspectives and collaborate with individuals and organisations to uncover solutions, facilitate community participation and drive purposeful action.

Over the years there have been many projects delivering meaningful and lasting outcomes. From beach clean-ups to the Fix-It club, biodiesel school buses, solar power, Green Mondays, freecycle uniform and waste composting, HKA's curriculum, operating practices and community initiatives are designed to build the mindset of future leaders and drive sustainable change. As this academic year comes to a close we share some of the school's recent endeavours.

Secondary School teachers have been working together to deliver a curriculum which enables students to build broad knowledge and deep understanding, whilst also making connections between subjects and ideas. An example of this is the Grade 6 students who learned about circular economies in their Individuals & Societies classes whilst in Science they learned about the energy crisis and its effects on our world. This opened a discussion about the environmental and societal impact of the global fashion industry and prompted the Grade 6 students to take the lead in HKA's community action in support of this years Redress campaign.

Students created educational messaging and visual content which was shared through school newsletters, community Whatsapp groups and social media throughout a month-long campaign. They also stepped up to take responsibility for managing and sorting a large volume of donated clothing and accessories which came in as a result. These items have been diverted from landfill and will be resold or recycled through the Redress programme.

Grade 9 students have been studying a Science Unit called 'It's Getting Hot in Here' addressing the theme of climate justice and resilience. The teacher invited HKA's Director of Facilities and Operations to the class to share information about the school's operational approach to reducing carbon emissions through operating practices and community initiatives. One of the community initiative partners is Carbon Care who invited the students to visit an area of subdivided housing so they could understand some of the day-to-day challenges that residents face. With limited electrical outlets and cramped living conditions residents shared that their biggest concerns were fire safety, humidity and heat.

Returning from the site visit students were challenged to come up with practical, science-based solutions for the residents with climate resilience and justice in mind. Having identified the residents' problems the students made two recommendations which may be of use: one at a micro level - DIY dehumidification, and one at a macro level - using algae as a carbon sink.

If residents were able to dehumidify their spaces they would have a lower reliance on fans and air conditioning therefore reducing energy consumption and the growth of mould. If society developed a more extensive strategy of carbon sinks it would support climate equity by slowing the effects of global heating. In partnership with operations students plan to develop prototyping through HKA's science club and hope to be able to share and test their ideas next semester.

HKA continues to build curricular and operational initiatives which create awareness of sustainable systems and deliver meaningful impact. Learn more about the school's programmes and visit their award-winning, sustainable campus by contacting the Admissions team or booking a personalised tour.

At VSA, Nurturing Environment Ignites Lifelong Passions and Inspires World Change

VSA believes that education is not just about acquiring knowledge, but about igniting a lifelong passion for learning and empowering students to make a difference in the world.

As a school, VSA is dedicated to nurturing these exceptional qualities both within and beyond its IB curriculum, offering a range of adaptable programs tailored to meet students' individual needs.

Flexible Academic Schedule for Exceptional Talent

One example is Y9 student, Yi Kiu, an elite badminton player representing Hong Kong. To support her pursuit of excellence, VSA has implemented the Flexible Academic Schedule for Exceptional Talent, which allows for modifications to her timetable, granting her additional time for her intensive training regimen. Through weekly mentor check-ins, VSA strategically ensures she maintains strong academic performance in her other subjects.

Establishing Connections to the Real World

The extensive After School Activities (ASA) program offers students incredible opportunities to delve deeper into their learning and establish connections to the real world. Students are engaged in developing innovative products that can bring about lasting change. Notable projects include the creation of a fireproof material using soybean residue and the development of a sustainable bioplastic using Chinese soup remnants. These initiatives not only showcase the practical applications of their scientific knowledge but also promote environmental sustainability. SPARC is a program at school designed to help enrich leadership and problem-solving skills for students, and the passion project in SPARC is one of those opportunities for students to profoundly shape their interests, whether in creating an app or in publishing a book.

Creating Impact Through Student-Led Initiatives

At VSA, students are given opportunities to turn their concerns and ideas into action. The Environmental Council, a student-led and initiated organization, collaborates with school stakeholders such as the uniform, bus, and catering companies to organize projects such as using biofuel and implementing sustainable school meals. Students are given the agency to create initiatives. One example is the Flowers for the Future HK, created by Y12 student Leila, in which the group uses Zoom to teach over 300 girls in Kabul, Afghanistan, who are prohibited from receiving an education. This inspiring student initiative resulted in Leila winning the IB Global Youth Action Fund and speaking at the IB Global Conference in Ireland.

Students' commitment to making a positive change amplifies upon graduation. The vast network of alumni worldwide is active in providing mentorships, panel sharings, and more, inspiring current students to continue challenging themselves academically, explore new horizons, and take on leadership roles to become global citizens.

American School Hong Kong: Well-Rounded Education for Students' Well-being and Growth

American School Hong Kong (ASHK) emphasizes providing a well-rounded education encompassing academics, social-emotional development, and physical well-being. ASHK is a through-train international school that adopts an inquiry-based approach to teaching and learning with a curriculum that aligns with the US Common Core standards from Kindergarten to Grade 10, followed by the IB Diploma program in Grades 11 and 12. We interviewed Mr. Christopher Coates, the School Director of ASHK, to learn more about how ASHK prioritizes student well-being and growth.

Can you describe ASHK's approach to teaching and learning?

We follow an inquiry-based approach to teaching and learning. Students' learning is facilitated by teachers, and it is not just the teachers imparting knowledge to the students. They ask the students guiding questions, and it's up to the students to use the resources and skills they've been taught to find the answers.

Why do students participate in community service and extracurricular activities?

It is not just about classroom learning, it's also about all the other aspects of school life. We strongly encourage our students to take advantage of the available extracurricular programs to get involved in community service activities and take on leadership roles. Students don't just come to school, go to class and go home. They get involved in various activities after school, whether in sports, the arts, leadership or community service.

How does involvement in these activities benefit students in IB?

CAS, Creativity, Activity, and Service is a part of the IB diploma program. In order for our Grade 11 and 12 students to pass the IB diploma, there are certain expectations that they have to meet in those three areas. For example, older students working with younger students or helping to run school events. We also encourage our students to get involved in the external community, whether in Hong Kong or internationally, to do community service work.

ASHK empowers students to become active learners, critical thinkers, and compassionate individuals. By nurturing a well-rounded educational experience, ASHK prepares students to excel academically while contributing positively to their communities and embracing a lifelong commitment to learning and service. Learn more about ASHK by contacting their Admissions Team, booking a school tour or visiting their website www.ashk.edu.hk.

A Small School With a Big Heart

are greeted by name. They have personal conversations with staff and well-being check-ins as they enter the class,” says Mr. Blaik. Wellbeing-focused teaching aims to help students understand themselves as learners and to develop self-awareness and personal, social and emotional skills. Our students are able to identify their emotions and use strategies to help them regulate and solve problems together.

Importance of a Growth Mindset

We foster a growth mindset in our school - a positive mindset is a superpower! We help students understand that well-directed effort moves them closer to their goals. Students learn to reflect, listen to feedback, and improve on their next try. They learn that challenges are opportunities to grow and improve, and failures are just stepping stones in the learning process.

To help our students gain a rich and diverse experience, we offer over 20 different after school programmes for students to explore and develop new hobbies and interests. Every year at our Talent Show, our students confidently perform their dance routines, singing, instrument playing, magic tricks, kung fu, and gymnastics to name a few.

Connect with Us

YCA is currently accepting applications for 2024-25 academic year with limited availability for Years 4-6. We would like to invite you to come see the school in action at our upcoming Open Afternoon on 12 June 2024. You will meet our students and teachers, and experience why YCA is such a unique school for children to prosper.

Y MCA Christian Academy (YCA) is a unique community-oriented private primary school on Hong Kong Island offering a vibrant, future-ready curriculum. “We are blessed with a connected community, amazing parents and student body. The majority of our new students join YCA through parent referrals” says Geoff Blaik, Principal. Following the International Primary Curriculum (IPC) and through our broad, balanced curriculum, students are empowered to identify and follow their passions and interests. Students learn how to be agents, taking ownership of their learning and development, maintaining a curious and reflective posture. We focus on the development of the whole child so that every student will grow and thrive academically, physically, spiritually, and socially. For this to happen, we maintain a nurturing learning environment and offer a range of support for students’ wellbeing and pastoral care.

Wellbeing Curriculum & Pastoral Care Matters

We offer a holistic, child-centred approach. We use the best of both the Jigsaw PSHE programme (UK) and Positive Education Enhanced Curriculum (Australia) to help students develop the knowledge, skills, and attributes they need to thrive as an individual, a family member, and as part of the wider community. “From the moment they arrive at school, they
